

WEB BASED JOB SEARCH RESOURCES

Using the Internet as a search method for jobs is becoming more popular and reliable. However, when searching on-line job banks and job announcements, be careful to check application deadlines and the date of each posting. Many of the web sites that contain job listings are not maintained regularly. Also, new web sites associated with public interest law and legal jobs are being continually developed. The following list is just a sampling of the numerous legal, employment, and public interest web sites.
